

My wife and I travel all over the United States on our Honda GoldWing. We also pull a tent trailer and camp at night. We depend on the weather broadcasts and traffic/road condition information we get on our XM radio for safety on the road. We don't know what local radio stations to use as we go from state to state.....so, we subscribe (and pay for) XM radio service for reception on our motorcycle. What happened to free speech? How can the National Association of Broadcasters dictate what information I can receive on the radio I paid for and the service I subscribe to each month? Please reject the NAB's Petition 04-160 and their efforts to control what information my XM radio provides to me.
